

Hi Cindy!

Here is some of the research I have on this line of the Comptons. Virtually all of the research came from Hinshaw's Encyclopedias, which can be found on Ancestry.com. I don't have a list of the abbreviations and their meanings to give you but you should be able to find a list on the net if you need to.

If you want, please let me know your line of Comptons, if this isn't it, and I can look further. Any name with a pink asterisk before it means that I have a headstone photo for that person. I copied the information, verbatim, from the encyclopedias. After you read awhile, you should be able to tell when I did additional research aside from Hinshaw. I hope this helps you in your research. Please feel free to use any of the photos I took at Caesar's Creek Friends Cemetery on the website. Those photos are only a portion of what I have regarding the Comptons.

Also, please let me know if you have any 'Mills' in your line as Mills is also a direct line for me.

I have saved this as a PDF file as I did not know what version you have of Microsoft Word.

Good luck and please don't hesitate to contact me with any questions...Have a great day and do let me know if you find what you're looking for...Linda C Bunnell,

H. Beers and Company 1880: Jesse Compton, farmer, P. O. New Burlington. Samuel Compton, father of the subject of our sketch, was born in South Carolina, August 16, 1796. His parents were Amos and Rebecca Compton. When about ten years of age, his parents emigrated from South Carolina to Greene County, Ohio, about the year 1806, and settled on the banks of Caesar's Creek, near where New Burlington is at present located. Amos lived here until his death, which occurred September 14, 1824. His wife afterward married John Furnas, Sr. She departed this life October 5, 1841. Samuel was reared on a farm, and in 1823, married Miss Alice Ally. Shortly after his marriage, he settled in the woods, about one mile west of his father's farm, in Greene County, and began to clear off his land, in which he endured a great many hardships. He was the father of eight children, five of whom grew to man and womanhood, viz.: Jesse, Rebecca, Nancy, Amos and Lydia. He departed this life March 12, 1861. His widow still survives him, she being now in her seventy-eighth year. Samuel was a member of the Society of Friends, and was at one time the owner of about seven hundred acres of land. Jesse Compton, the subject of our present sketch, and eldest child of Samuel Compton, was born January 12, 1825, in Greene County; was reared to manhood on a farm. He received the rudiments of an English education, in a district school. He was married October 12, 1848, to Miss Esther Spray, born in July, 1831, and daughter of Jesse Sr., and Mary Spray. They are the parents of six children, viz.: Uriah, Martha, John S., Mary A., Lydia J. and Elizabeth A. In 1848, he removed from Greene County to Chester Township, Clinton County, and located about one-* half of a mile east of New Burlington. He is an ardent member of the Society of Friends, and the owner of about 151 acres of land.

H. Beers and Company 1880* Chester Twp : Layton Jay was born in Newberry District (County), S. C., as was also his wife, Elizabeth, who was a daughter of John Mills. They were members of Bush River Monthly Meeting of Friends, and were married according to the discipline of that church about the year 1796. Ten children were born to them, of whom all but three were born before coming to Ohio: Patience, born 16th day, 4th month, 1794; Charlotte, 13th, 7th, 1795; William, 30th, 8th, 1796; John, 29th, 4th, 1798; James; 27th, 7th, 1800; Abigail, 29th, 6th, 1802; David, 14th, 8th, 1804; Mary, 8th, 3rd, 1806; Elijah, 13th, 7th, 1807; Anna, 3rd, 4th, 1810. The exact date of their coming to Ohio is not known, yet it was not later than 1804 that they left South Carolina, and came by the way of Tennessee and Kentucky, crossing the Ohio at Cincinnati on a flat-boat, the horses tied to it and swimming behind. They landed near the present site of Waynesville, and the family remained there in camp for some time, or until the husband and father could find a place of settlement. He finally took a lease on the lands of James Hurray, or on land now owned by Thomas Longstretch. His coming here was contemporary with the arrival of Robert Eachus, Jacob Haines, Isaac Perkins, Mahlon Haworth and a few others, who settled in that neighborhood at the same time. The people of Chester Township of to-day can form but a faint conception of the condition of things then. We who now live here, surrounded with the many comforts and conveniences of life, know little regarding the mode of living in those early days. Their cabins were of unhewn logs, the bottom ones placed directly upon the ground. with poles and clapboards overhead, and contained but one room. The floor was made of puncheons, or logs split and then hewn, so that the flat or upper most side presented a tolerable flat surface, but which made a very substantial floor. The roof was of clapboards, held in their places by large poles laid lengthwise. The chimneys were of sticks and mud, or clay. The fire-place was generally of large dimensions, often as wide as seven feet, and capable of taking in large sticks of wood, and up whose chimneys on cold wintry nights a roaring fire went, and around whose hearths the family gathered, and where the evening meal was prepared by loved hands. ~ At this time, but little land had been prepared for cultivation, and in its garb of nature presented a field of long and heavy toil to the pioneer. But these men were equal to the task. It seemed that their mode of living prepared them for the great labor that of necessity devolved upon them, and their bodies were free from the many ills that beset men of our day. It is true their lives were ones of constant privation and great labor, but withal it was to them in many instances a happy one, filled with a fullness of great and pure love for their families and friends, and a charity and friendship for each and all, and above all sound bodies and healthy offspring. There was no time for play, no time for idleness, from morning until night; from early dawn of the second until the close of the seventh day in each week, it was work. No one was idle, from the father to the child. There was timber to fell, rails to split, fences to build, ground to clear off, chips and brush to pile and burn, flax to break and spin, wool to card and weave, cows to milk and meals to prepare; in fact, there was room for all to work, and all did work. ~ For untold ages it has been the custom of man to lavish his praises upon those who, by mighty deeds of valor, on field of battle, send their names ringing down the flight of time; but not a word, not a praise for these real heroes, does man bestow, who, without a desire to create a name in history for themselves, bore the battles of toil and privation that those who followed in after years might reap the benefits. To these men and their faithful wives should the honors be awarded. ~ The Indians were very numerous, as were the bears, wolves, deer and wild turkeys. The former at that day were not troublesome nor did they give the settler any fears. "I well remember them coming to my father's cabin," said the venerable John Jay to the writer, "and sitting or standing around my father's shoe bench until late bedtime. Jim Logan, a chief, and one of the number, could talk English some. I very well remember the rings suspended from their noses and ears, and vividly the night when Jim took an awl from my father's bench, and taking me by my ear, pretended he was going to pierce it. I screamed loudly, when he threw down the awl and pretended to feel very bad about it. Every night we could see the light from their camp-fires. I also recollect one evening when my father, one of my brothers and myself were out in the little clearing pulling turnips, we heard the Indians' dogs coming through the wood, making a loud noise with their barking. My father said they were pursuing a bear, and for us to remain where we were until he could go to the house, get his gun and return, which he soon did. We then followed after the dogs and soon came up with them, and also with the bear, who had safely, as he thought, ensconced himself in the top of a tree. My father waited some time for the Indians to come up, when, fearing it would then be too dark to see. shot and killed it. The Indians soon after came up, and hastily removing the skin they cut the bear in twain, gave my father half and returned in a merry humor to their camp. The first mill I ever went to was the mill of Robert Eachus, upon Todd's Fork, and I well recollect the circumstance attending it. Robert was of a cross or surly disposition, and was especially considered so by boys or those not acquainted with his manners. Riding up to the mill floor, I called to him and asked him if he could grind my grist of corn. His reply came quick and very crusty, 'No.' Without remaining to ask another question, I turned my horse about and rode home, where my father met me, and hearing my story, took me off, got on himself, rode to the mill and left it until such a time as he could grind it. The nearest trading place was where Waynesville now stands, and that a very small affair indeed. It was kept by David Halloway in a log cabin, and was the first and only one there at the time I speak of. His counter and his only shelf were puncheons, while his stock consisted of knives, forks, spoons, knitting-needles, weavers' reels, awl blades, sewing thread, needles, powder, tobacco, whisky and a few other articles daily called for by the settlers. ~ "We remained here until 1809, when my father with the family moved up on Stillwater, in Darke County, where, in 1814, he died with milk sickness. My mother then returned to Chester Township with her children to her father's, John Mills, who then resided on Turkey Run. The children who were old enough went from home to live." Mr. Jay ever after remained in the township, and his further history will yet appear in these pages. NOTES: George Arnold was a son of John and Lina Arnold, of Newberry District, the eldest of a family of eight children, and born probably as early as 1760. There are no records. He married, about the year 1783, Rachel, a sister of John Mills. NOTES: John Furnas was born in Newberry District, S. C., and was a member of Bush River Monthly Meeting of Friends. He married, about the year 1790, Esther, a daughter of John and Dinah Wilson. They had but one child, Christopher, born 18th of 10th month, 1791. On the 13th of 9th month, 1795, his wife died and was buried in the Friends' Burying-Ground on Bush River. About the year 1797, he married Ruth, a daughter of Isaac and Charity Cook, who was born 25th of 8th month, 1776. She bore him in all four children - Isaac, 6th of 12th month, 1798; Mary, 10th of 12th month, 1800; Joseph, 24th of 9th month, 1802; and Robert, the latter in Ohio, 3rd of 6th month, 1805. In 1805, he came to Ohio, possibly with the Millhouses, and settled temporarily near Waynesville. Among those contemporary with Furnas, from Newberry Distract, were George Arnold, Thomas Lewis and Robert Kelley. The survey, No. 570, as I before remarked, was then upon the market, and these people purchased the entire tract of land on or about the 3rd of 12th month, 1806. Beginning on the northwest, Robert Kelley purchased 120 acres; then John Furnas, 154 acres; Thomas Lewis, 155 acres; all these lands running from Caesar Creek southeast. Adjoining these three tracts of land on the southeast, George Arnold took 238 acres, which completed two-thirds of it. Henry Millhouse purchased the balance, or about 333 acres, extending to Blair's Survey, No. 569. The consideration in each case was $2 per acre. ~ On the 3rd of 6th month, 1806, John Furnas purchased his lands, and settled the same year where Samuel Lemar now lives and owns. He erected thereon the story-and-a-half part of the Squire's present residence, and began life in the new State. There was no road then in this section, his location being influenced by the spring near by. He was also a blacksmith, and erected his shop a little northwest of his house, now west of the road. Here, for many years, the sound of his anvil could be heard, and the smoke seen issuing from the sooty stick-and-clay chimney. But full sixty years have passed and gone since this fire went out to him forever. On the 21st of 9th month, 1822, his second wife died, at the age of forty-six years. His third wife was Rebecca Millhouse Compton, with whom he lived until the 9th of 3rd month, 1830, when he died and was "gathered to his fathers." ~ On the lands purchased by Henry Millhouse he settled his children, as follows: Amos Hawkins, on the southwest corner, or upon the farm where his son Henry lived out a long life, and died but a few years ago; David Whitson, adjoining Hawkins on the north, or upon the farm now owned by Milton Keys; Mordecai Spray, east of Hawkins; Robert, where William Icenhour lives, and himself between there and Mordecai Spray. Amos and Stephen Compton settled in Warren County. NOTES: John Mills, Sr., of whom mention has been made in these pages, as a brother to Rachel, wife of George Arnold, and father of the wife of Layton Jay, came here the same year and settled on lands south of Easterling and Bray. He was a native of Newberry District, S. C., and a member of Bush River Monthly Meeting of Friends. He purchased 100 acres of land. His son, John Mills, Jr., ninety acres. NOTES: Joseph Mills, about the year 1811, purchased 130 acres of land in {Survey} 770. He was a native of Ireland, and by trade a weaver. This was where the widow of William Bailey, Jr., now lives. William Bailey, Sr., came here about the same time from Virginia, and settled where his widow now resides. His wife was a daughter of Joseph Mills. NOTES: James Jay was a native of Newberry District, South Carolina, and a member of Bush River Monthly Meeting of Friends. He married while yet in that State, and at a very early day, Jemima, a daughter of John Mills, Sr., and sister to the wife of his brother, Layton Jay. They had,

among other children born to them, a son, Alexander, who had arrived at manhood and married before leaving that State. They came to Ohio and settled upon the lands of George Arnold, in Survey 571, Arnold's wife being an aunt to James Jay's wife. Arnold erected a house for James, just west of his, or between the dwelling of Peter De Haven and the spring. Alex. settled north of the road leading by the house. The latter remained here some years and then emigrated to Indiana, where his wife died in a few years. He then returned with his children to Buck Run, and shortly purchased of Edward Powers the 100 acres last mentioned. The "Bullskin" road, as laid out in 1807, passed through these lands from south to north, and the road leading to Mt. Holly and the Jenkins Mill from east to west. ~ In 1829, Jay erected in the northwest quarter of his lands (as subdivided by these roads), a story-and-a-half frame dwelling, and when done occupied it. In 1831, Griswold B. Hawes rented it of Jay, converted part of it into a business room and occupied it the same year as a dwelling and store. In the spring of 1833, Jacob Peirson, Sr., Jacob Peirson, Jr., John Grant and John Menford, these doing business in Mt. Holly under the firm name of Peirson, Grant & Co., came here, purchased the stock of Hawes and opened a branch under the management of John Grant. They also purchased of Jay the lot last mentioned and Lot No. 1 in the northeast "square." The former had a frontage on the "Bullskin" of thirty feet and was twenty feet deep. The latter contained fifty-nine square rods. The consideration was $100, including the house. ~ The same year (1833), John Grant erected on the latter the substantial two-story dwelling and store building yet standing. Mr. Grant had, before coming here, or in 1830, married Eliza, a daughter of Charles and Lydia Jenkins Mann. The same year (1833), Jay erected the two-story frame, now owned and occupied by John Oglesbee. Joel Conger, the same year, erected a hewed-log house, on the lot now owned by William Huffman; William Ogborn, a log house where George Miller lives; William Hurley, a one-story frame where Dr. Creighton owns and lives; Jordan Whitson, where Samuel Weaver owns, occupied by tenant. Arza Gage had a log cabin on the lot now owned by the Widow Stanley. ~ In this year. Jay married Miss Margaret Irvin (who yet survives him), and moved into his new house; in the same fall Mr. Grant occupied his.

H. Beers & CO. 1880* Spring Valley Twp: John Compton, retired farmer, New Burlington, Ohio, was born on the old homestead, near New Burlington, March 1, 1807; was the son of Amos and Rebecca (Millhouse) Compton, who were both born in South Carolina. They came to this state in 1804, or 1805, and settled where our subject now resides. They left their former home for the two-fold reason of escaping to some place where there was no such thing as traffic in human flesh, and to better their condition financially. They came in wagons, and on horseback; and with streams to ford, and mountains to cross, they were indeed pioneers; and all their woodcraft stood them good service in the clearing of the forests to build their homes. Getting an education in the youth of our subject was a matter attended by considerable trouble. They had no system of common schools at that time, and the teachers were paid by a subscription raised by the different people who had children to send. Our subject's first school experience was in the usual log hut. The chimney was made on the inside, of huge logs, open in front, and made with sticks and mud on the outside. The hearth was of large stones, brought from the neighboring brooks. A log was taken out one side, and greased paper inserted for glass. There was a puncheon floor, and heavy slabs for seats, and smoother slabs fastened to the sides of the hut, at an angle, to serve as writing-desks. Quite a contrast this to our modern model little brick structure in the country. Our subject, being ingenious, had made himself a squirt-gun of elder, and this being the only one in the school, he was promoted to the position of fireman that is, he was to put out the fire when it caught the logs that constituted the fire-place. It is hardly necessary to say he rather enjoyed it than otherwise. He lived at home until his marriage, working on the farm in the summer, and going to school in the winter. In 1832, he was married to Miss Rebecca Steddom, of Warren County. The result of this marriage was three children, all living: Eunice, Alice, and Amos S. They are all married-Eunice to John Mendenhall; they have seven children living. Alice to Edward R. Walton, living near New Burlington; they have one child, Hetty. Amos to Catharine Mendenhall, and lives near the old homestead. Mr. Compton has taken quite an interest in school matters, and in consequence has been school director several times. He, with his wife and family, are orthodox Quakers, and attend at the Caesar's Creek Friends' Church. They have been life members through birthright. Is now, and always has been, a Republican, and voted first for John Quincy Adams, in 1828. His wife was born February 20, 1813, of John and Alice (Teague) Steddom, who came from South Carolina to Warren County, near Lebanon, about the same time the Comptons came to this state, 1804 or 1805. She remained at home with her parents until her marriage with our subject. After that they removed to their own home; and until the marriage of her own son and daughters, she devoted herself to them. Now the two live alone on the old homestead, waiting for the summons that comes to us all sooner or later; but with them the preparation is made, and they will only exclaim "Not mine, but thy will be done, O Lord."
